

Episode one:

Pekkonen: Congrats on the new job.

Kinnunen: Thanks. Yeah, that was a really good piece of news.

Pekkonen: You know I don't see you around the office that much.

Kinnunen: Yeah I usually prefer to work remotely from home. After a while, it gets a little tiring at the office.

Pekkonen: oh yeah, I understand. Is the university administration ok with remote work for office staff?

Kinnunen: Well yeah, it's just that we have to make sure we take security precautions. After all, I have access to HR systems and employee information.

Pekkonen: Did you have to do something about security specifically?

Kinnunen: I had to read the security policy of the university and make sure I abide by the rules. I think we all sign the policy when we sign a contract so it wasn't too much hassle anyway. You know do not share your credentials, do not leave your laptop unattended, etc. etc.

Pekkonen: Oh I see.

Episode two

Pekkonen: Hi, so this is your new apartment. Congrats and here's a little housewarming gift.

Kinnunen: Hi, good to see you. Welcome. I was just finalizing some work.

Pekkonen: Great. I was actually thinking of you the other day, because I watched a video about remote working and its challenges. I think you might wanna have a look.

Kinnunen: sure, sounds interesting. I'm gonna go prepare some coffee?

Pekkonen: sure. IS it ok if I use your laptop in the meanwhile to find this video I was talking about?

Kinnunen: my laptop...